The most recognizable home on Pearson Drive is finally up for grabs, and trust me, it’s just as stunning on the inside as that bold black-and-cedar exterior suggests. Step through the covered breezeway (yes, a breezeway) into a thoughtful entry with custom storage that actually makes you want to stay organized. From there, things only get better: a dreamy black and walnut kitchen with a soapstone island so big it might need its own postal code, subway tile for days, and a tucked-away pantry that hides your microwave and your secrets. The vaulted living room is pure drama, in a good way. Floor to ceiling windows, a cozy wood stove, and motorized blinds that make it feel a little like a James Bond hideout. Upstairs, the walnut hardwood continues (because of course it does), and the primary suite? A spa-like escape with a clawfoot tub and a custom closet that actually fits your wardrobe. Outside, the professionally landscaped yard is its own little paradise...herringbone brick, twinkly built-in lighting, privacy fencing, and a gas BBQ ready for your summer parties. The garage is tricked out too (hello shop goals), but hey, you could still park in it. If you must. This one of a kind home is the perfect blend of modern design, warmth, and serious craftsmanship. It’s not just impressive; it’s unforgettable. Come see why.
