Where Chinook warmth meets Rocky Mountain cool. This is suburban living done with intention — just under 2,100 sq. ft. of open, light-filled space in one of Calgary's most established communities. The moment you walk in, the line of sight says everything: front door? custom staircase? backyard. It's a visual runway of calm and connection. The vaulted ceilings rise above the west-facing family room and formal dining, catching golden-hour light that spills into the home — a wide, functional space designed for real life. Think generous prep zones, storage that actually stores, and a kitchen sink framed by backyard views (because yes, the best family homes are built around that window). A wood-burning fireplace with gas starter brings romance to the winter months, while main floor laundry and a fourth bedroom/office deliver everyday practicality. Upstairs, three more bedrooms keep the family close — without feeling crowded. Fresh paint, new vinyl floors, and baseboards reset the tone, but it's the behind-the-scenes upgrades that make this home truly next level: dual high-efficiency furnaces (2018), twin A/C units, Trane CleanEffects air cleaner (2021), water softener and reverse osmosis system (2023), and full poly-B to PEX replacement. Out back, low-maintenance turf, pavers, a BBQ gas line, and a hot tub make this yard your year-round escape. Even the garage comes finished — insulated, drywalled, and painted — because in Calgary, that's more than a perk; it's a power move. 88 Woodford Close SW — a home that blends function, flow, and a little firelight.
